Fires strike north Hancock, residents seek protection

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
While several residents and local officials are trying to establish a chartered North Hancock County Fire Protection District, four fires have recently destroyed structures and property in that area.
In all instances, Ed Friloux, Diamondhead fire safety administrator and county fire investigator, claims a local fire department could have prevented total destruction of property.
A meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 24 in the District Three Community Center at the Hwy. 603-53 junction to organize a fire district serving all of north Hancock County.
This area now has no organized fire protection other than Kiln Volunteer and Diamondhead Fire Departments and it takes an average of 20 minutes for these nearby departments to reach a fire in that area.

Friloux notes in a matter of a few minutes a house or trailer can become completely involved in flames—when no fire fighting efforts can save a structure or its contents.
HOME, SHED, TRUCK BURN
A five-alarm blaze in the Standard Community Wednesday afternoon destroyed a brick home, a state vehicle and a shed.
Fire fighters were hampered in their efforts when containers of diesel and propane exploded in the shed.

The fire, reported at 3:01 p.m., began at the residence of Ronald Ladner on Old Belle Creek Road near the Wolf Creek Road intersection.
Ladner is an officer of the State Department of Wildlife.
Friloux says his investigation revealed a pot of food on a stove overheated and ignited the home after Ladner's wife Elenora left the residence to serve customers at their nearby store.
"Ronald Ladner was at the Poplarville stock yard at the time and his child, father and wife were at home," Friloux noted.
"One of their customers saw smoke rising from the home so Elenora Ladner called the telephone operator who called Diamondhead," the investigator reported.

"We dispatched Kiln and our rescue unit to the scene and members of Lizana, Saucier and North Hancock Volunteer Fire Departments also arrived to assist," he said.
"When units arrived the home was completely involved in flames. A nearby shed also ignited along with two 55-gallon drums of diesel fuel and a five gallon propane tank stored in the structure," Friloux reported.
"We were able to prevent the fire from spreading to another shed containing two 300-gallon butane tanks and a neighboring home," he said.
Friloux noted a severe explosion could have resulted if the butane tanks would have ignited.
"The county was under a tornado watch at the time and heavy rain also prevented the other shed from burning," he added.

However, a State Department of Wildlife pickup truck parked some 25 feet behind the house ignited and was totally destroyed by the fire.

RESTAURANT SHED DESTROYED
A woods fire in the Rocky Hill Community earlier the same day destroyed a storage shed behind Henley's Restaurant and Bar on Hwy. 603 and damaged a nearby abandoned building.

The two-alarm blaze brought Kiln and Diamondhead units, but Friloux reported the shed was completely involved when they arrived.

"The fire threatened the restaurant, so fire fighters contained the fire to prevent the restaurant from burning," the investigator noted.

"Henley's was open at the time and one of the employees called Peggy Ladner at the Kiln Supermarket who called Diamondhead," Friloux said.

TRAILER DESTROYED
A woods fire, suspected as arson, ignited a house trailer in the Dedeaux Community which burned to the ground late Tuesday afternoon.

"Diamondhead received a telephone call at 6:02 p.m. reporting the mobile home of Clentis B. and Myrtle Cuevas was on fire," Friloux said.

The Cuevas home was located 2.5 miles north of the old Dedeaux school on the Standard-Vidalia Road.

"Myrtle Cuevas called the Diamondhead switchboard to report the fire, but did not provide the location of her home. Fortunately, one of the operators knew the Cuevas' personally and was able to provide firemen directions to the trailer," Friloux explained.

Hospital adopts cash only policy

By BRENT MACEY
The Hancock General Hospital Board of Trustees has adopted a new "cash only" policy for patients using the emergency room who are not covered by insurance.
The policy also extends to outpatients.
Phillip Langston, hospital administrator, said the program "will become effective immediately."

"Patients who seek treatment in the hospital emergency room, but are not considered emergency patients will be required to pay for the services at the time services are rendered," Langston said.
"Outpatient service will be performed only on a cash basis in the absence of verifiable insurance," he stated.

He said the title outpatient would also apply to people who come to the hospital for tests, for example, and leave the same day the tests are taken.

"Many times those patients are referred by a personal physician not necessarily associated with the hospital," he said.

Langston said the policies were adopted because of the high incidence of non-payment and debts for emergency room service which have increased in the past two years.

When asked what will be considered a true emergency, Langston said, "It is hard to define. I do not want to make a specific list and then have to make exceptions. We are trying to steer away from that. We will handle the determination on an individual basis."

He added, "If a person is dying on the steps they will be taken care of."

He said the hospital provides emergency service to approximately 600 patients a month.

"Less than 50 percent of these can be classified as needing true emergency care," he said.

"The majority of visits are patients who use the hospital emergency room in lieu of seeing a physician in his office," he added.

Langston stated often a patient with a non-emergency medical problem will seek the help in the hospital emergency room at night or on weekends when the physician's offices are closed.

The hospital has a qualified licensed physician available to see those patients during those hours, he said.

"Because the hospital emergency room is staffed for 24 hours, seven days a week, service and qualified licensed physicians are available during the evening, night, and weekend hours, all efforts must be utilized to collect payment for services rendered," he noted.

Langston said the new policy is in line with practices at hospitals throughout the nation.

Youth escapes serious injury in hit-and-run

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A 13-year-old Hancock County boy is in custody of the County Youth Court following a hit-and-run incident on Hwy. 603 in Waveland Wednesday afternoon.
Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department said Friday, "We received a report at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday of a hit-and-run incident on Hwy. 603 just north of the US-90 intersection."

Gregory E. Mareno, 17, of Central Avenue in Shoreline Park was apparently walking north on the right hand side of the northbound lane of Hwy. 603. Witnesses said a red and white Ford pickup truck with a camper cover hit the pedestrian," Dorn explained.

"Mareno was struck by the vehicle on his left hip and sustained contusions and abrasions to his right lower chest and elbow," he reported.

"He was conscious and coherent after being knocked into a roadside ditch filled with water," the police chief noted.

Dorn said the injured pedestrian was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital.

Hospital spokesman Mike Halford Saturday said Mareno was kept at the hospital for two days for observation and released Friday afternoon.

The police chief said eyewitness descriptions of the vehicle and its license plate number lead to the apprehension of the young driver.

"The youth was apparently alone in the vehicle," he stated.

Dorn reported the County Sheriff's Department assisted Waveland by arresting the local youth who lives with his parents in the county.

An eyewitness to the incident reported Friday, "It was raining real hard and the boy was walking on the side of the road with a bag in his hand."

"The pickup truck hit the boy causing him to flip a complete summersault into the ditch," the witness said.

"At first no cars stopped, so I went back to the scene and the youth was face down and unconscious in the ditch water," the witness noted.

"But he came to, said he was alright and asked 'Where am I?'" the witness stated.

"He got up out of the ditch and walked up to some other people stopped on the side of the road," the witness added.

Dorn said Patrolman Chuck James handled the incident along with Patrolman John Wilkerson and a unit of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Bay mayor's veto stands on regional wastewater

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay St. Louis City Council Thursday bogged down on the wastewater issue again when it failed to override Mayor Larry Bennett's veto of an earlier resolution to join the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority.
The council needed four votes to pass Councilman Fred Wagner's motion to override the Bennett veto, but could muster only three votes Thursday night.
Bennett, who is also a member of the Waveland Wastewater Authority, had vetoed a three-two vote by the council last January in favor of joining the Gulf Coast Regional Authority.

Wilmer Seymour, councilman at large, and Harry Farve District Three councilman, voted to oppose the motion to override the veto.

Those councilmen originally voted against joining the Regional Authority in January.

Pete Benvenutti, council president; Fred Wagner, District Two councilman; and James Thriftley, District One councilman, favored the motion proposed by Wagner to override the mayor's veto.

Those three originally were in favor of joining the Gulf Coast Regional Authority.

Thriftley said, "We feel the situation is such that we must consider the ramifications if we do not make a move."

He said it did not matter if the contract called for a 99 year agreement.

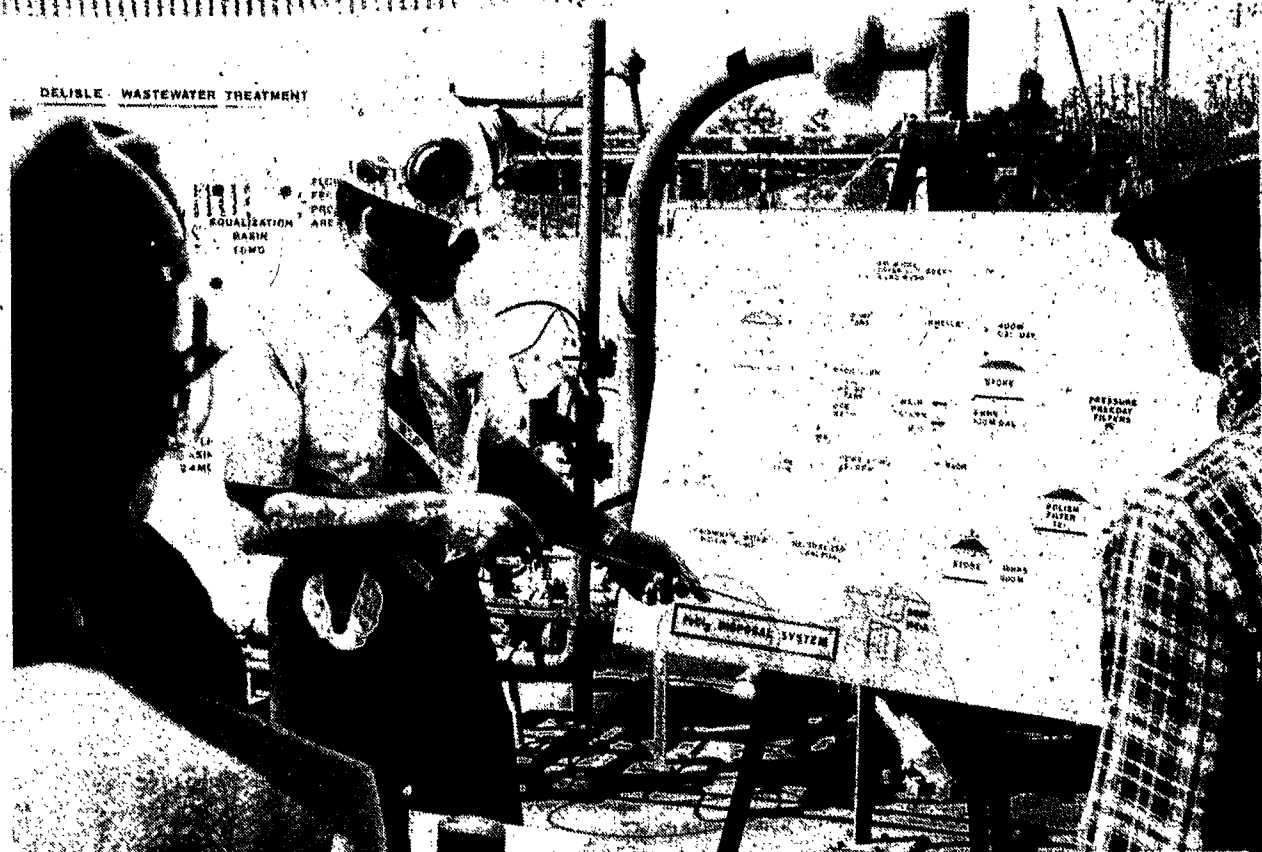

"Any contract we enter is in effect a lifetime agreement," he expressed concern over not joining the regional plan, 70 percent federally funded and approved by the Environmental Protection Agency and Mississippi State Bureau of Pollution Control.

"We would have to start from scratch. There are many many hazards faced without having a plan. This new plan could cost money which this city is not prepared to pay."

Seymour said, "I have to vote against the motion. I am still not convinced the regional plan is the best way to go."

Hancock General plans RN refresher program

Hancock General Hospital is offering a special refresher course for RN's who have been out of nursing from five to 20 years.

The course will run for five weeks from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will cover all aspects of nursing care.

Included in the course will be CPR instruction and I.V. therapy instruction.

Participants will be given both classroom lectures and "hands on" opportunities to use new equipment and perform newer nursing procedures.

On completion of the course, the RN should be able to return to full or part time nursing on a staff level at any of the hospitals in the state.

The cost of the course is $80.

However, should the class participant following this course desire to apply for full or part time employment at Hancock General, the entire cost of the course will be refunded when the nurse completes her 90 day probation period.

Nurses interested in participating must register as quickly as possible and must bring a copy of their current RN license to the hospital.

If the nurse does not have her current Mississippi License, she should apply directly to the Mississippi State Board of Nursing for a temporary permit to practice.

We can not accept a class participant that does not have either a current Mississippi License or a current Mississippi Temporary Permit to practice.

This refresher course is the first of its kind to be offered on the Coast and will be open only to ten nurses, with preference being given to the nurse wishing to return to active duty in a hospital situation.

The course will run from May 11 - June 8 and applications for the course will close March 30. The course is being submitted for continuing Education credit and will carry 20 CEU's on approval.

The course will be taught primarily by Ms. Dee Hamilton, RN who is the director of Staff Development at Hancock General.

Ms. Hamilton has successfully "graduated" more than 50 "refresher nurses" from this course given in California at two different hospitals.

Call either Ms. Hamilton or Ms. Cathy Savage, the director of Nursing at Hancock General Hospital for further information and an application form.

Story Hour titles listed

Pre-school children are invited to story hour each Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

This week the two stories told will be Cretor by Tomi Unger and Once a Mouse by Marcia Brown.

The two filmstrips to be shown are "Little Toot" by Gramaty and "Ten Apples on Top" by Theo LeSieg.

I-10 victim identified

By BRENT MACEY

A man struck and killed by an automobile last Sunday morning on I-10 about one mile west of Hwy. 603 has been identified by his fingerprints as 57-year-old Robert Wesley Moler.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said identification resulted from combined efforts of Officer Mickey Ladner of the Mississippi Highway Patrol and Investigator Alvin Ladner of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Peterson said no known relatives of the man have been located.

He said the man's last known address was Tulsa, Oklahoma.

"We are currently working on an order with the county attorney to have the man buried by the county," he added.

Moler was struck at approximately 6:30 a.m. by a car occupied by three women on route to New Orleans.

Ladner said, Miguel Elie, 21, driver of the automobile, said it was foggy and she did not see the man until the instant the car struck him and threw him into the middle emergency lane.

Headache Cause May Be Pinched Nerve

According to a report issued by the N. Y. Journal of Medicine, the cause of headache in over 90% of 2,000 patients studied was a mechanical irritation of the nerves that exit between the bones of the neck. The report states that "Direct injury to the neck may be caused by a blow or a fall that could easily irritate delicate spinal nerves."

American Weekly Magazine informed readers, "Headaches strike 18,000,000 Americans on a regular basis," and each day some 21 tons of aspirin are consumed in the attempt to gain relief.

Modern chiropractic treatment seeks to eliminate this irritation of spinal nerves and produce effective relief of neck tension and headaches.

Local Girl Scouts deserve our support

America this week salutes its Girl Scouts by observing national Girl Scout Week.

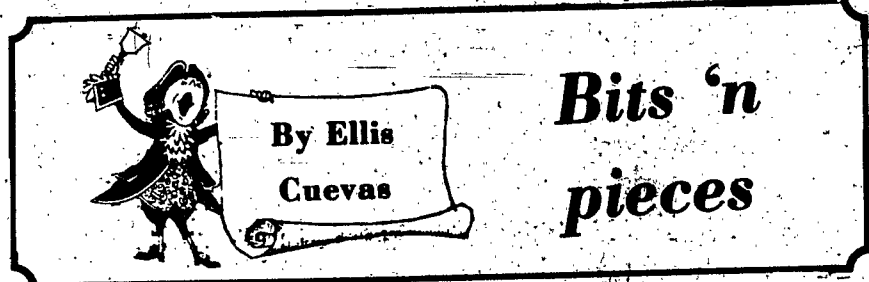

In Bay St. Louis, the members of Girl Scout Troop 32 will continue an ongoing fund raising effort this week to finance a pilgrimage journey in June to the birthplace of the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Lowe, in Savannah, Ga.

Troop 32 leader Mrs. Donald Strong made the same pilgrimage some 25 years ago under the leadership of Mrs. Donald Chamberlain, and is now working to see that the young ladies in her charge have the same opportunity.

Troop 32 is sponsoring a skating party Friday at Twin Pines Skating Rink from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Tickets for the troop's fund raising events are available from members Andrea Ambrose, Georgianna Dagnall, Angelle Givens, Leslie Gleber, Suzanne Hille, Jennifer Kirk, Kelli Lee, Missy Moran, Julie Schaefer, Alicein Schwabacker and Dee Dee Strong.

What could be a better way to join in the national salute to Girl Scouts than by assisting Girl Scout projects underway right here at home?

Bits 'n pieces

Time is coming to a close for persons to claim homestead exemptions.

In a conversation with Edward Murtagh, tax collector-assessor a couple of days ago, he informed us that several hundred homeowners have failed to file their homestead exemptions for 1981.

The deadline is April 1.

We hope those who haven't filed yet will do so before the deadline because it could save them about 50 percent on property taxes.

Dogs are man's best friend according to many and we feel there are many friends of dogs in our area.

We like dogs and have had one as long as we can remember. There is a problem caused by man's best friend the dog, and that is a barking dog.

Apparently there are many reasons for a dog to bark. One family tells us they have problems sleeping as their neighbor's dog continuously barks.

We feel that dog owners should try and keep their pets from disturbing the neighborhood.

The dog could have a need which is not provided by the owner.

Phil Langston, administrator of Hancock General Hospital is the scheduled speaker for the quarterly Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's "Morning Edition" on Friday.

The morning coffee will be held at the Siroin Stockade, Waveland, starting at 7:15 a.m.

Current issues at Hancock General are to be Langston's topic and should be of interest to all.

We hope you will mark Friday on your calendar and hope to see you at the Chamber's Morning Edition.

Glad to see the State Highway Department patch the shoulder of US-90 at Dunbar in Bay St. Louis.

The threat of a Soviet invasion of Poland has focused public attention in the West on the broader question of the balance of power in Europe.

In computing this balance one decisive factor must be "non-aligned" Yugoslavia.

The 1947 break between Josip Tito's Communist Yugoslavia and Joseph Stalin's Communist Russia conferred upon his minor Balkan nation a political importance far beyond what her military or economic power would command.

Communist, but not Soviet-dominated, Yugoslavia became a leader of the so-called non-aligned nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The United States is keenly interested in maintaining the political independence and territorial integrity of the Yugoslavian Republic as a sign of our commitment to the principle of national self-determination without foreign interference.

The Soviet Union, on the other hand, continually attempts to draw Yugoslavia closer to the Warsaw Pact in order to end the scandal of the sheep which has strayed from the fold.

Her political notoriety aside, however, Yugoslavia commands the attention of the two superpowers because of her geographic position.

The geopolitical importance of Yugoslavian territory may be seen in certain proposals put forward by Soviet President Brezhnev to the still living Tito in March of 1980.

Brezhnev asked Tito for three things. First, the Yugoslavs were requested to send a high-ranking officer to the military planning sessions of the Warsaw Pact.

Second, they were to permit the Soviets to build a naval base on the Adriatic Coast, opposite Italy.

And third, the Soviets asked for the right to fly military aircraft over Yugoslavian airspace.

The purpose of Brezhnev's requests was to increase Soviet and Warsaw Pact capabilities against NATO's Southern Flank, made up of the Mediterranean nations of Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Operating from Yugoslavia, Soviet naval and air forces could range over most of Italy and the seas surrounding her, harassing her sea and airborn communications with other NATO nations.

If such forces were supported by naval and air operations staged from Qaddafi's Libya to the south, the Italian peninsula would be virtually surrounded by a cordon of hostile planes, surface vessels and submarines.

In this strategic environment, Italian governments might prefer neutrality to adherence to the Western alliance.

The extent to which such a movement away from the West would be welcomed and encouraged by the strong leftist elements in Italian politics remains a matter of speculation.

In addition to jeopardizing Italian security, Soviet bases in southern Yugoslavia would increase the capacity of the Soviet navy to interfere with communications between the Western and Eastern Mediterranean.

The Italian peninsula almost bisects the Mediterranean, and passage between the sea's eastern and western halves can only be negotiated through the narrow Straits of Messina which lie between Italy and Sicily, or through the broader but still restricted Straits of Sicily which lie between Sicily and North Africa.

The Soviets could infest these straits, the Gulf of Sirte and the Ionian Sea with Adriatic based submarines and naval aircraft, making it extremely risky for the U.S. Sixth Fleet and other allied forces to operate freely in what had been a NATO lake.

Again, support of such Soviet operations by forces based in Libya would add to the dangers of Allied shipping.

Under such conditions, it would be very difficult for the United States and NATO to fulfill their treaty obligations to Greece and Turkey, to reinforce Israel in case of a renewed war, or to come to the aid of Egypt and other friendly governments in the Middle East.

By contrast, Soviet capacities to intervene in the Middle East would be enhanced.

The precedent has already been set. In 1973, during the third Arab-Israeli war, the Soviets rescued the Egyptians from defeat by making extensive use of Yugoslavia territory, facilities, and air-space to reinforce Egypt.

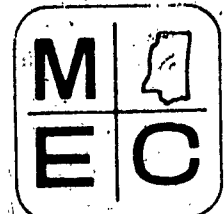

More recently, the Soviets have sent military supplies to Iraq through the Yugoslav port of Rijeka.

The positioning of Soviet naval forces on the Adriatic coast would go a long way toward solving one of the longest-standing and most critical difficulties facing Soviet naval strategists.

Ever since the time of Peter the Great, who built the city of St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) as a window to the West, Russia's rulers, Tsarist or Communist, have sought access to the warm-water ports of the Mediterranean.

Yugoslavia offers the Soviets the opportunity to achieve this centuries-long ambition by becoming Russia's window on the Adriatic.

Events should soon reveal whether the West is any longer capable of keeping this window closed.

WHAT ABOUT QUALIFICATIONS?

The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled Mississippi's justice court system unconstitutional in its methods of handling civil cases on a fee basis.

Legislative efforts to establish a system of lower courts in compliance with the court's ruling have initiated the first major step to reform the state's lower court system since enactment of the 1890 Constitution.

Since changes seem to be inevitable, the Legislature should look at all aspects of the system to assure Mississippians of quality courts at the grass roots level.

The Mississippi Economic Council supports upgrading the qualifications for the office of justice court judge. Presently, there is dissatisfaction with the system because of most court officers' limited legal training and experience.

Litigants who are financially able frequently appeal the decisions of justice court personnel whose legal ability is questionable.

Litigants who cannot afford the appeal process are often victims of unqualified judges and are forced to abide by decisions made by less-than-competent judges.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Former Bay resident praises

local community, facilities

Dear Sir:

Please allow me time and space to thank the good people of Bay St. Louis.

My family and I moved to your city in February of 1980. We had never moved before, and the severance of ties with life-long friends and family was traumatic.

A chief concern of mine was my junior-high school children. My daughter, Angie was in the eighth grade and Kent was in the ninth grade.

The children and teachers made my children feel as if they truly belonged. Their adjustment was unbelievable because of the fine people and their concern.

Mrs. Cathy Carter, Coach Cleveland Williams and Coach Gary Blaise made us feel a part of the community. The public library staff welcomed us also.

The employees of local stores treated us as if we were 'old friends.'

The staff and doctors at Hancock General Hospital are to be commended for their loyalty and caring. They are a dedicated group who have worked long hours under not quite so harmonious conditions to achieve a common goal of delivering quality patient care.

We are now living in Ocean Springs which is very much a change from Bay St. Louis.

I miss the friendly, unhurried atmosphere. We are all thankful to have been a part of your community and shall always thank you for your hospitality.

A friend,

Children broken hearted

over shooting of pet

Sea Coast Echo
Editor

Dear Sir:

We live in a Waveland neighborhood near the beach. We have more than most — pretty homes, fun-loving children and their loved pets.

But on the afternoon of Friday the thirteenth of February, a blast from a high powered gun filled our neighborhood.

Now I'm explaining to my three children — twelve, eight and two years old — why someone would shoot their beloved Persian cat, Cooter.

Cooter was not killed but in serious condition.

Our vet has been very kind and trying very hard to save Cooter.

He's called the children every day to report on Cooter's progress, but it doesn't stop their tears and long suffering.

They are not sure if Cooter will live or die or if they will be able to love and hold him again.

I can't believe a person would shoot a high powered gun off in a neighborhood with families and friends so close. I thank God my baby was not following Cooter around as he usually does.

To The Editor,

This is America, the criminals get away free.

I have just served two days in the Hancock County Jail because I couldn't afford to pay my child support.

My ex-wife and her husband have recently been charged with burglary, yet they're out free, having a good time on my money while I'm in jail trying to support my family and her's also.

The courts didn't care about my wife at home, who was just in a bad auto accident, and with a two day old baby.

Taxpayers, do you think you should be feeding me, when I didn't commit a crime?

People, please speak up, this is your country, too.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Last week we were discussing the various ad rates used by most newspapers and concluded with the column inch, a basic measure for local retail, as compared with the space line, a basic space measure used by advertising agencies in purchasing space for clients.

A third fairly standard rate, usually applied to more legal or public notices, classified ads, and "readers" is a word rate.

Word rates are also indefinite as to the actual amount of space, but it allows for payment in advance with too much calculation as compared with predetermining how much actual space the copy would require if set in solid type.

Some classified rates are based on lines, and are generally calculated in advance by allowing for a certain number of characters per line. Legal notices, as audits and budgets, that contain tables or tabular matter are also usually charged for by the line.

Other special rates are sometimes set by law, as for quarterly statements for banks, which generally run at least two columns wide, and are on-again, off-again, restricted as to minimum type size by the Federal Banking Commission.

Notices by tax collectors to owners of property on which tax may be delinquent and subject to sale for taxes, are often regulated as to size of type and method of billing—usually a flat amount per property description.

Other special rates may include one charged for position in the paper, either on the page or in a special section; color, either spot or process added to a black and white space ad; special typesetting requirements; and sometimes for a reverse ad (white letters or illustrations on a black background, which requires an extra step in production and may sometimes create problems on the press).

All these rates are not an attempt to confuse you. They are merely set up to accommodate the many diverse groups who have a need for newspaper advertising.

Most confusion comes from trying to compare rates from one publication to another based on cost per line or inch. Here, once again, the actual rate is, and should be, a very small factor. The true test, and only meaningful one, is comparison of dollars of sales produced on promotion of your particular goods.

LaNasa featured in recital

MARCEL LANASA

Marcel LaNasa, of Waveland, former music teacher in local city and county schools, will present a violin recital at the next meeting of the Hancock County Friends of the Library.

The event is slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 12, at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue. The public is invited.

LaNasa is a graduate of Loyola University in New Orleans, was a music fellow at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge and performed with the New Orleans Symphony.

He studied at the Santa Cecilia Academy in Rome under an Italian government scholarship. LaNasa has been teaching music for some 37 years.

He will be accompanied on the piano by Carolyn Crull of Ray St. Louis, who studied piano at the Friends University Conservatory of Music, Wichita, Kan. and by his wife, Vera.

Selections include Beethoven's Spring Sonata, Reverie by Vieuxtemps, Sonata No. 29 by Mozart, Czardas by Monti and Prælium und Allegro by Pugnani-Kreisler.

Diamondhead Rescue Unit responded to the call.

"When fire fighters arrived the house trailer was fully involved in flames. The structure was completely destroyed along with all the couple's possessions," the investigator said.

"All fire fighters could do was cool down the ashes," he added.

"We suspect a woods fire which ignited the trailer was the work of an arsonist," Friloux noted.

VAN BURNS

Diamondhead and Kiln also responded to a Feb. 25 call at 12:35 p.m. at Justin's Club on Hwy. 603 near the White Cypress Community where a van burned.

"The cup owners were apparently 'backburning' brush on their land when the fire got away from them," the investigator reported.

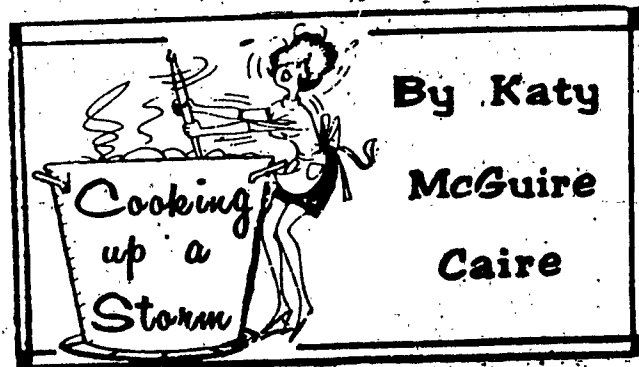

"The fire spread and burned a 1977 van owned by Royce Hathaway, club manager," Friloux added.

WHERE TO CALL

The investigator notes that in case of a structural fire all county residents north of I-10 should call Diamondhead at 255-1313 or Bay St. Louis Fire Department at 467-5151.

Friloux says Diamondhead is responsible for dispatching the Kiln department.

Jeff Larson is chief of the Kiln department.

After the feasting and fun of Mardi Gras, now comes the fasting, or at least the slower pace of Lent, though Lenten rules have been broadened so much in recent times that few and fewer of us adhere to the old ways.

Speaking of old ways, here's an "old time" recipe for white beans, creamy, creamy and oh-so-good. Here's:

WHITE BEANS

1 pound white (navy) beans
1 large bunch green onions
2 cloves garlic
1/2 cup chopped celery leaves
5 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon 1/2 pound salt

pork or ham trimmings
1 cup salad oil
Salt, pepper (black, red)
Soak the beans overnight in cold water (or, if you forget or if you prefer more modern ways, bring the beans to a boil, take off the fire and let them soak for an hour, drain and cook as usual the same day).

Anyway, cut the salt pork or ham pieces, in cubes (about an inch) and fry for a few minutes in the oil, in a heavy pot or Dutch oven, but don't let the cubes get too brown.

Cook a bit before adding the beans along with water to cover. Bring to simmering point. Meanwhile, chop the seasonings. Cut off the green tops of the onions, and set aside.

Chop the white part coarsely and add to the bean pot. Chop the parsley, garlic and celery leaves, adding about half to the beans, and reserving the remainder, stirring the pot gently as you add.

If necessary, add more water, and continue simmering for about two hours or less, until beans are really soft, stirring occasionally as needed.

I always mash some of the beans against the side of the pot, and stir back into the whole, as this adds to the creamy texture. Add salt and the black and red pepper to your taste.

When the beans are truly creamy, add the reserved herbs and the green onion tops, cut into pieces, and after a couple of minutes when they wilt a little, turn off the fire. Serve over rice to six or so hungry people, and don't forget the hot pepper sauce for splashing over to each diner's taste.

If you own timberland and spent money for improving it by planting trees during 1980 you probably have a sizeable tax credit due you on this year's federal income tax return, according to provisions of legislation signed into law last October by President Carter.

The new statute, H.R. 4310, includes a tax incentive provision (originally known as the Packwood Amendment) that provides a 10 percent investment tax credit on reforestation expenses of up to $10,000 per year.

It also allows for seven-year amortization of the entire reforestation cost (up to $10,000) as a deduction from gross income. The law covers expenditures dating back to January 1, 1980.

As an example: If a timber owner spent $10,000 in 1980 for reforestation (cost of site preparation, seeds, or seedlings, labor and tools including depreciation of equipment used in planting or seeding), he would receive a $1,000 credit ($10,000 x 10 percent) against the taxes otherwise owed, plus an amortization deduction of one-fourteenth of $10,000 ($741) in 1980, one-seventh of $10,000 (1,418) in each of the succeeding six years and one-fourteenth of $10,000 in the last year (1987).

Mississippi AFT convenes this week

The seventh annual convention of the Mississippi American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, will be held March 11 through 13 at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, US-90, Biloxi.

The Wednesday session will begin at 8 p.m. and will be an Executive Council meeting.

General business will begin Thursday, March 12, at 8 a.m., when registration will begin.

Total registration fee is $10. Persons who pre-register will have included in that registration fee a luncheon on Friday.

Persons who register on the dates of the convention will not have the luncheon included in their agenda.

Anyone may pre-register by sending their name and a check for $10 to the MAFT State Office, P.O. Box 745, Gulfport, or may bring their registration to the office on 3501 Hewes Avenue.

The theme of this year's meeting is "Directions for the 80's" and will focus on defining goals of the organization and charting the course to meet those goals.

State leaders will conduct workshops in a variety of areas on both Thursday and Friday. Nominations for state officers will take place on Thursday and elections for the two-year terms will take place on Friday.

Special guest speaker for the event will be Mr. Eugene Didier, Southern Organizing Project Director for National AFT. Didier will speak at the awards luncheon on Friday.

Seymour said he had talked with approximately 300 people in the community about the issue.

"I feel the citizens have got to pay the bill and they do not want to pay for the regional plan."

Farve said, "I am not scared of the 99 year contract as much as I am the cost of joining the regional agreement. In effect we are just giving somebody a blank check and I am not prepared to do that."

Wagner said he made the motion "because we need to take a specific action. I felt there was a need not to leave the project on dead center but to move one way or another."

After the vote was taken and the council remained deadlocked, the council unanimously agreed on another motion proposed by Wagner.

That motion requested "specific action be presented to the council and citizenry" in regard to a new plan which will allow the city of Bay St. Louis to comply with EPA and the state Pollution Control Board standards by 1983.

The city must conform to those standards by 1983 or face possible fines or law suits from state and government agencies.

In further business, the board heard a report from engineer James Chiniche on drainage for Thomas Street, Boardman Avenue, Leonhard Avenue, Dunbar Avenue, and the 300 block of deMontluzin Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

Chiniche said the report is "basically" the same as the report delivered to the council last May 1980 except a total of $77,469 needed for repairs in 1980 may have risen 10 percent due to inflation.

Chiniche said drainage problems in the area are the result of lack of proper installation of culverts and lack of maintenance in ditches in the area.

He said the ditches have plant growth, silt, sediment and debris which is stopping drainage.

He recommended the council accept and implement the report and authorize design plans to initiate a policy for proper size and grade of culvert operations.

He also asked the council to initiate a program to clean the debris from the drainage areas and authorize development of a master drainage plan for the entire city.

The council took no action but mentioned the lack of money needed to implement such a program.

Also during the 7 p.m. meeting at the Bay St. Louis City Hall, the council heard an offer from SeaShore Utilities represented by attorney Nicholas Haas to sell a water distribution system of pipes currently serving the Hancock Heights area.

Haas said the company wished to sell the system for $30,000 to the city.

Bay St. Louis was under contract with the utility company to maintain the pipes and pay a percent of the money acquired from water service charges back to the company.

Council attorney Joseph Gex said that contract expired 10 months ago.

"I will not recommend you buy or do not buy the system," Gex said.

Thriffley asked if a restrictive covenants required the subdivision to maintain the water system.

Gex was requested to look into that matter.

Benvenuti appointed a committee including Wagner, Farve, and Gex to meet with Haas and "come up with something reasonable."

Also at the meeting, the council approved a request from engineer Michael Smith to submit a pre-application to the Bureau of Marine Resources in Gulfport to obtain funds for an economic feasibility study for a water and sewer system in the city.

Smith said the study would actually be a master plan to determine what areas to which the city can afford to extend service.

Smith said the pre-application and application will cost the city $1,200 if accepted by BMR and will be free if the plans are rejected. He said 80 percent of the proposed $25,000 project will be paid by the Coastal Energy Impact Program if the plan is accepted.

"Before it will be accepted however, they must know if the plan is going to be implemented."

Smith said the program could be implemented one step at a time.

The council took under advisement a request by Smith to submit a pre-application on building a boat launch in the city.

In further business, the council: —Approved recommending the State Board of Health proceed with actions against Don White, owner of the land containing a dump on Webb Street;

—Informed Charles Hurstius that curbing will be installed in the Spanish Acre Subdivision within one or two weeks;

—Took bids for construction of fencing around city windmills under advisement;

—Accepted the February Claims Docket with the exception of three items, including a $4,034 payment to Breland and Barnett attorneys of Gulfport for their representation of the city in a $150,000 law suit filed by Kelvin Schultz against Bay St. Louis. The council requested Gex to inquire into the status of that suit before making payments; a $77 payment to Martin's Uniforms because of a discrepancy in the purchase order and invoice; and a $37 light bill for Bay Junior High bus lot. The council feels the school district should be responsible for the payment.

Thriffley and Benvenuti voted against accepting the docket because of a resolution passed by the council several months ago requesting the various city departments present a weekly report of their activities to the council. "The departments have not done that and I will not accept the claims docket until they do," Thriffley said. Benvenuti was opposed for the same reason.

—Accepted the minutes of the Planning and Zoning Board into the council minutes but refused to accept a motion in the board's minutes which changed the 'single use amendment' to include 'new structures.' The amendment currently pertains only to 'existing structures' and does not include new structures; As a result the council rejected a request approved by the board to grant a specific use permit to Adolf G. Uram to build a structure on Central Avenue to be used for working on headstones and office facilities.

Heard a report from Edward Farve, city clerk, that office hours will be extended for voter registration from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Mondays thru Fridays from March 23 to April 9 and also on Saturdays from 8 p.m. to 8 p.m. from March 21 to April 4.

Natchez hosts annual Spring Pilgrimage

Towns and cities throughout the world, its citizens are devoted to preserving its past in both traditions and buildings that are its legacy.

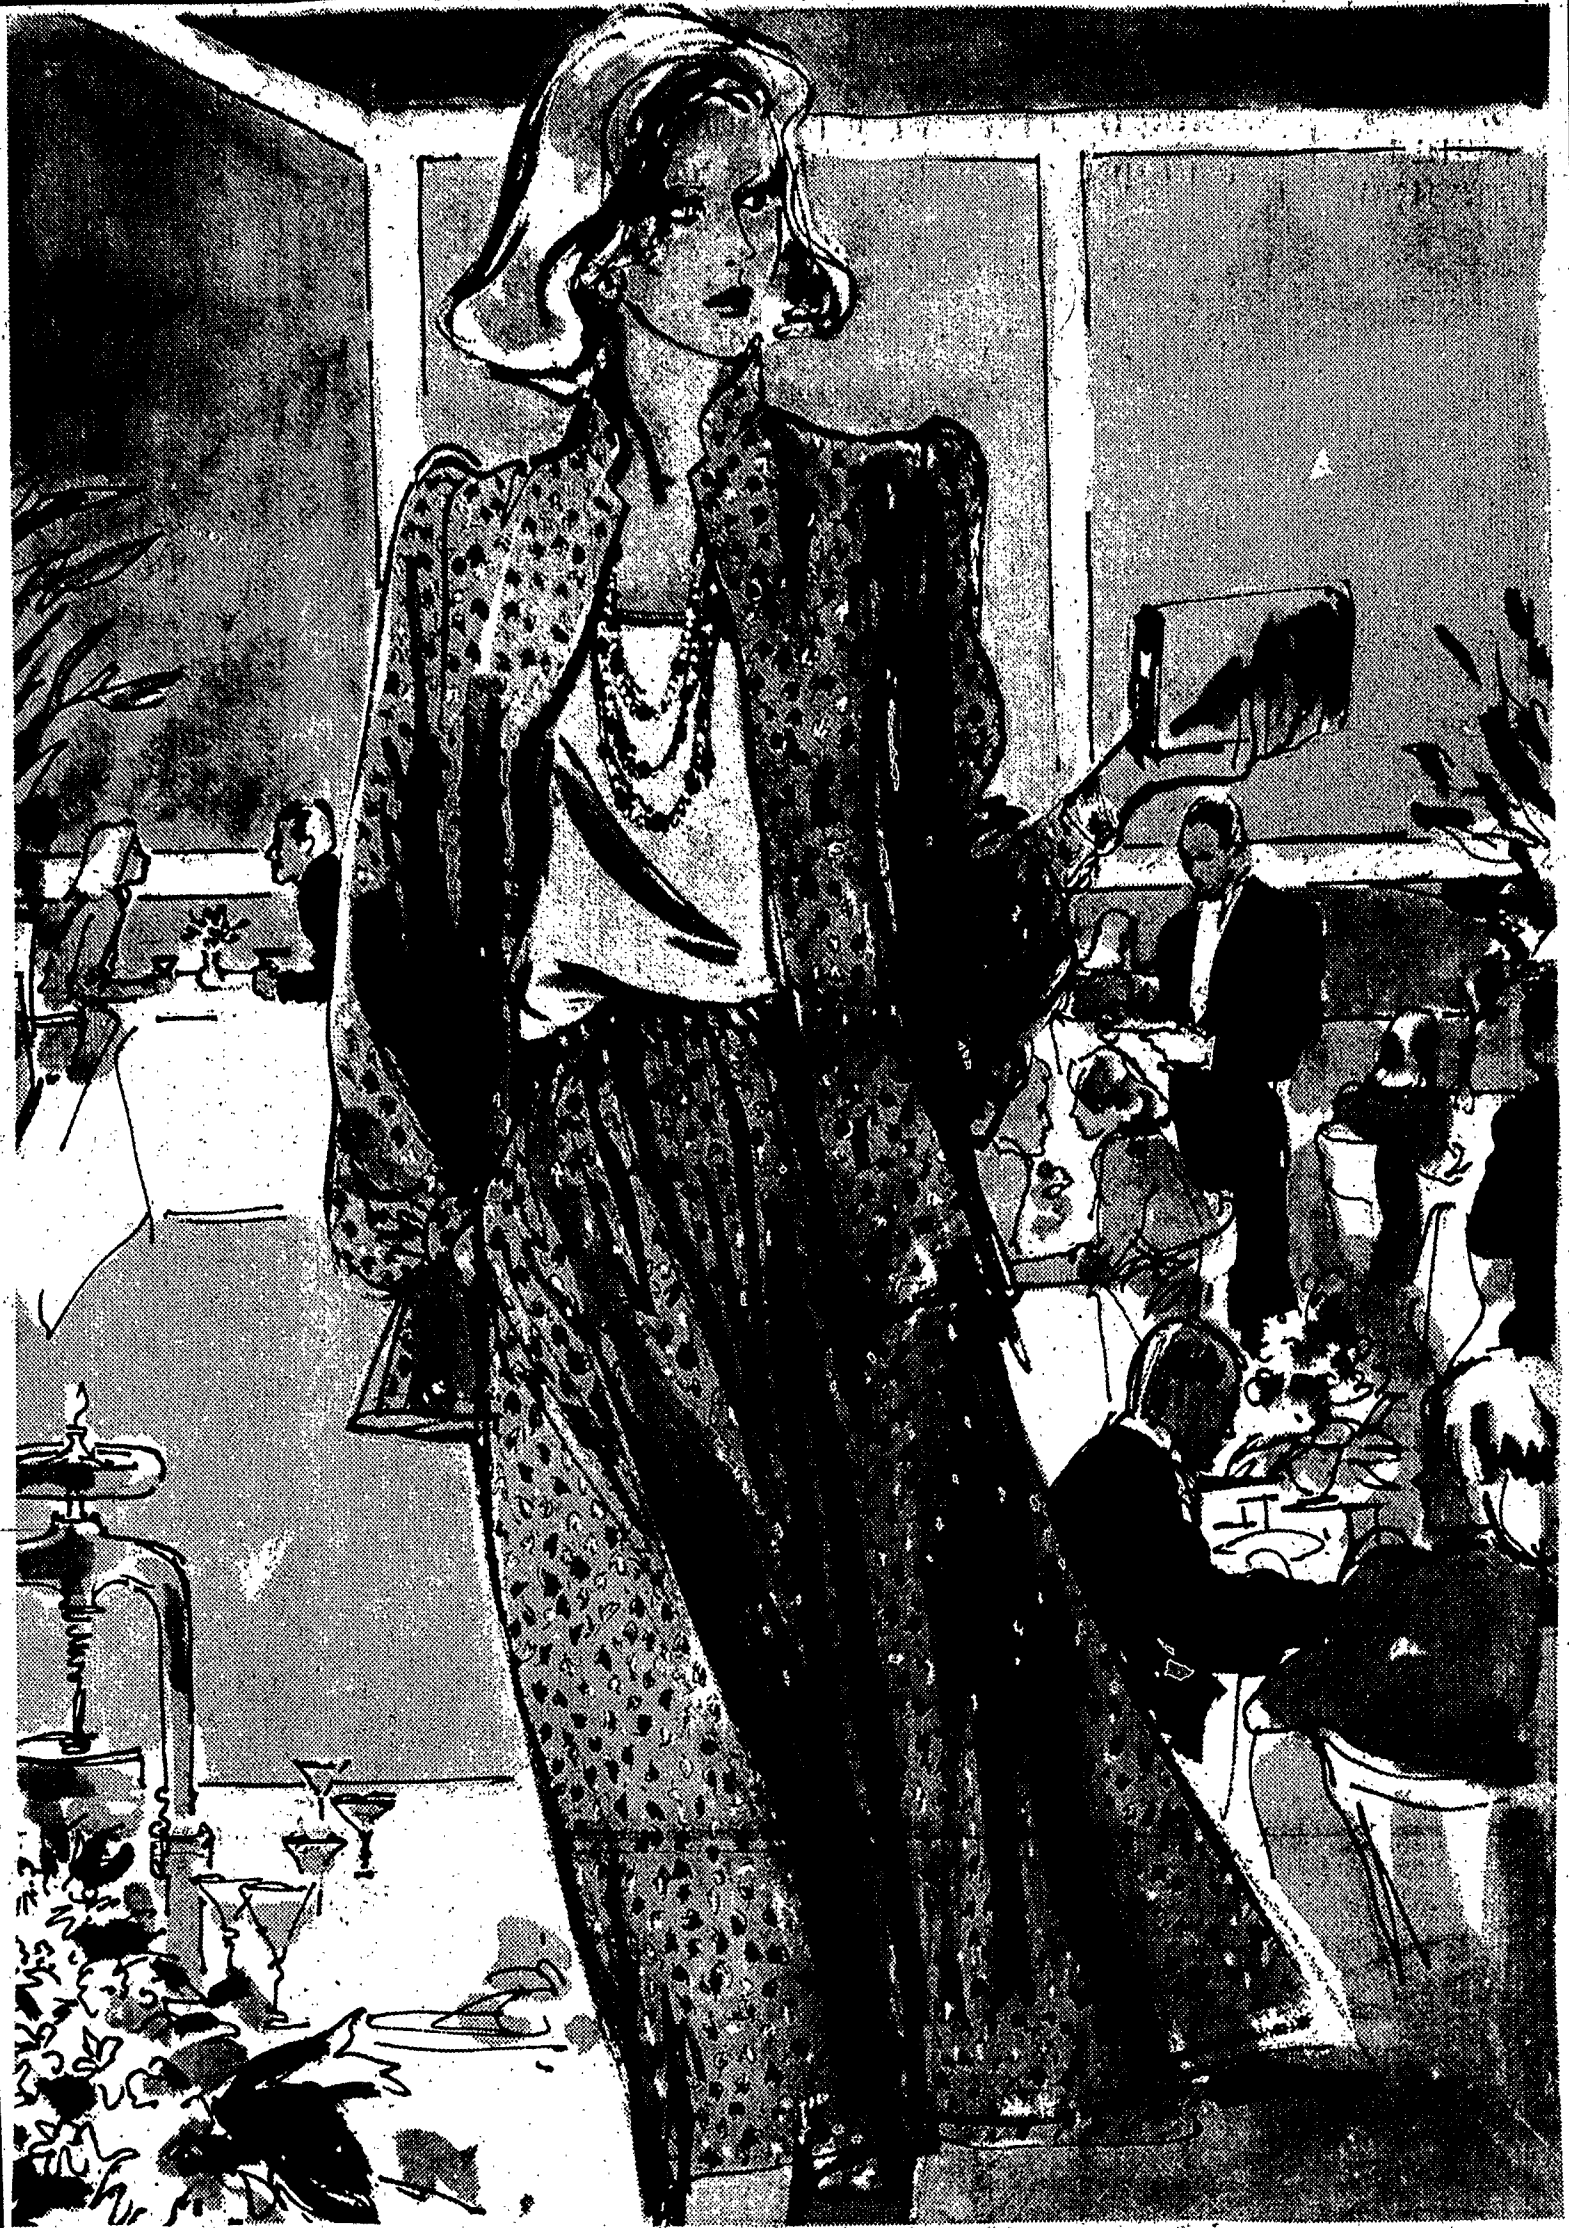

Natchez has never forgotten. Nestled on high bluffs and standing there is much to be preserved. The history of Natchez is interesting to every American as each may find a part of his heritage here. Founded in 1718 by the French, Natchez is the oldest city on the river. The flags of five nations have flown over her lands. Each one of the cultural capitals of Britain, Spain, the Confederate States, and the United States of America — has added to her rich legacy.

The influence of the reigning country is reflected in the variety of architectural styles that are found here.

The annual Spring Pilgrimage will be held March 7 — April 5, 1981.

For further information write or call: The Natchez Spring Pilgrimage, P.O. Box 347, Natchez, Ms 39120 or Toll Free: 1-800-647-6742.

Fucich, Bludnick wed at St. Clare's

Kristy DiAnne Bludnick became the bride of Kenneth J. Fucich of Lakeshore in a 2 p.m. ceremony on February 28 at St. Clare's Catholic Church in Waveland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bourgeois of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fucich of Lakeshore.

Rev. Bill Voller celebrated a Nuptial Mass before an altar decorated with baskets of white and burgundy roses. Seven tiered standing candelabra were accented with ferns and palms.

Mrs. Mildred Means of Waveland provided musical selections.

Given in marriage by her step-father, Otto Bourgeois, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke and high collar of English net overlaid with jeweled venise lace. Matching venise lace embellished with seed pearls accented the bodice and full bishop sleeves. The full flowing skirt was bordered with a wide lace flounce and formed a chapel of cranberry qiana, fashioned with empire bodice, spaghetti straps and matching capelet. Their full skirts featured accordian pleats. They wore cranberry picture hats trimmed with silk roses and bows of illusion and carried arm bouquets of cranberry and white roses with baby's breath and ribbon streamers.

Miss Tina Benigno of New Orleans was junior bridesmaid. Miss Kasi Henderson of Pass Christian, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Scott LaFontaine of Bay St. Louis was ring bearer.

Johnny Santinelli of Bay St. Louis served the groom as best man.

length train. Her full length veil of silk illusion was edged with chantilly lace and held in place by a matching jeweled lace caplet. She carried a cascade of white and cranberry roses and rosebuds accented with baby's breath. Kelly LeMere of Bay St. Louis served her sister as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kim Henderson of Pass Christian, sister of the bride; Mrs. Kathy Mainne of Bay St. Louis, twin sister of the groom; Cherie Colley of Waveland; Shelia Bell of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Elaine Benigno of New Orleans, aunt of the bride.

Bridesmaids were identically attired in formal gowns

Groomsmen were Clayton Fucich, Wayne Fucich and Drew Fucich of Lakeshore, all brothers of the groom; Percy Henderson of Pass Christian, brother-in-law of the bride; and Marvin Ladner of Bay St. Louis.

Step-brothers of the bride Owen Bourgeois and Kirk Bourgeois of Bay St. Louis were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bay St. Louis. Floral baskets flanked the bride's table and palms and fern decorated throughout.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a formal gown of pink organza, featuring a long pleated skirt. The mother of the groom was attired in a floor length gown of turquoise knit, with rounded neckline and long sleeves.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Sharon White of Pass Christian and Mrs. Barbara Bourgeois, also of Pass Christian.

For traveling to Nashville, Tenn., the bride chose a white fitted suit with beige and white accessories. A corsage of cranberry and white roses completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Lakeshore.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hughes, grandparents of the bride, of Ree Heights, S.D.

St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church formed the setting for the 2 p.m. ceremony on February 7 uniting Catherine Loraine Lizana and Harry John Farve, both of Bay St. Louis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lizana Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Farve, also of Bay St. Louis.

A Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Bernard C. Keller, SVD and Rev. Francis Therault, SVD.

Musical selections were rendered by Alfriza Acker, organist; and Betty Lizana, aunt of the bride, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Alphonse Lizana Jr. Cindy Lizana of Bay St. Louis attended her sister as maid of honor.

Joseph Farve, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the St. Rose De Lima cafeteria.

Crafty Homemakers meet

The Crafty Homemakers, an extension homemakers club, met February 23 at 10 a.m. in the home of Helen Pahlman on Highway 90.

Nine members were in attendance.

The main topic of discussion of the meeting was "The effect of inflation on our budget."

Helen Pahlman and Beatrice Ladner reported on the outcome of the February council meeting.

The dress revue luncheon scheduled for April was discussed, and it was noted that several members plan to make and model outfits for the occasion.

The group is making a quilt, and several finished squares were turned in.

Ruby Hogan, cultural arts chairman, discussed activities for the month.

A luncheon followed the business session.

Royalty of Land, Sea toast at Diamondhead

Clear, and sunny skies prevailed at the sixth annual Diamondhead Mardi Gras Parade Saturday, February 28.

Reigning jointly, were King Ali'i Honua Al Doussan and his Queen Alice Little, and King Akua Kai J.C. Koenenn and his Queen, Gloria Barber.

The theme of the parade was "Happiness is..." and the land parade rolled from the Diamondhead Country Club with many varied entries as clowns, bees and dancing tennis players.

Decorated golf cart-mounted groups and floats covered the spectator-lined streets the three miles to the Yacht Club.

When the Royalty of the Land reached the Yacht Club, they reviewed from the deck of the Club, the royal entrance of King Akua Kai J.C.

Koenenn and his queen.

The royalty toasted one another, one aboard the royal yacht and the other from the Yacht Club. They then joined forces to review the entries of the boat parade.

A large fish, with moving fins, more bees, and a "pot of gold at the end of the rainbow" these were a few of the entries following the theme of "Happiness is..."

Later that evening, a large crowd gathered at the Country

Club for the Mardi Gras ball, where final toasting ceremonies took place, followed by dinner and dancing.

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

BEWARE lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ" (Col. 2:8).

Trying to escape the truth, the world may entertain itself with frivolity, and save its ego with sophistry and illusions of grandeur, but in the moment of truth, it expects and hopes for something better from the people and the messengers of God.

Unregenerated men and women, along with carnal believers, seem difficult enough to reach with the Word of God. But when they are finally shaken into some measure of sobriety, we find them hungering for the real thing.

They have been fed-up with juvenile and irresponsible mimicry. They have had enough religious veneer, sensationalism and gimmickry, rapping in the unsavory vernacular of a frustrated and rebellious generation.

They cry out for and need a message fresh from heaven, plain, simple and gun-barrel straight.

Those who witness to and win people in this generation must realize that we cannot help the Gospel along by aping the fashion of this age, appealing to its culture, its taste and fashions.

Preachers who attempt to be comedians are miserable flops. People who want to see and hear a comedian can turn their TV on and see a professional.

God never called a Christian leader, be he a minister or whoever, to be a comedian or a clown.

If he persists in being such, he will be recognized as a joke soon enough.

Just remember: God never meant that His inspired revelation to men, which is, and will forever be, "foolishness to them that perish," should be revamped, streamlined nor paraphrased to make it acceptable to the natural man. Men must square with the Gospel to be saved, must understand that they are lost, repent of their sins and be born again.

To cater to their pride and tickle their ears in order to make them favorably disposed to hear our message is to defeat the very purpose of the Gospel.

The Scriptures are not geared to frivolity, and the tone of the Gospel, while it is indeed Good News, it is Good News of a feast, not a frolic.

No great revival or soul-winning movement ever started in fun-making nor ran on such fuel.

There is joy aplenty to be sure, but it is the heavenly joy of the Spirit of God and not the silly antics of human clowning under religious auspices.

The business of God is executed with calm deliberation; with great joy, confidence and assurance; but always in dead seriousness, because God's business is serious business!

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION - What is the relationship between cigarette smoking and "handedness?"

- Right-handed persons smoke more.
- Left-handed persons smoke more.
- Both groups smoke about the same.
- No studies have been made on this question.

ANSWER - More left-handers smoke than right-handers and they also smoke more, a group of researchers at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor has found.

According to a story in The U.S. Journal (11-79), Ernest Harburg, a research scientist with the Program for Urban Health, James Papadopoulos, a professor of psychology, and Anna Feldstein, a professor of biostatistics, accidentally discovered the relationship between smoking and "handedness" while examining data from a community study in Detroit.

So far they have no explanation why more left-handers smoke and smoke more than right-handers.

Correct answer: b. For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

The sodality welcomed three new members, Mesdames Robert Ortis, John J. Schneider and Elizabeth Esteves.

Plans were announced for the luncheon and social on March 11. Two guests were present, Mesdames Reese Harbeson and Ralph Sander. The next meeting will be Tuesday, March 24 at 2 p.m. at the parish hall.

Keesler chaplains plan lenten drama

The Chaplains of Keesler will begin a special Lenten series Sunday evening which through dramatic monologues will make those personalities that figured in the death of Jesus Christ come alive.

The series, "Personalities Around The Cross" begins Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at Chapel Two and will continue each Sunday evening through April 12. During the programs Judas, Simon Peter, Caiaphas, Pilate, Herod, Simon of Cyrene, and the Roman Centurion will come alive offering new and interesting insights to these personalities of the cross.

Special music and Lenten liturgy will be featured.

St. Paul's sets renewal mission

A six day Mission of Renewal will be held in St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian from Saturday, March 21 to Thursday, March 26, inclusive, according to announcement by Monsignor James McGough, pastor. Mission director will be Father Daniel Malain, CP, of the Holy Name Retreat House, in Houston, Tex.

There will be Mass at 8 a.m. each morning, and a special service each evening in St. Paul Church at 7:30 p.m.

All members of St. Paul Church and others are invited to attend.

Religion

Religious Emphasis Week March 16-19 slated at Alcorn

Rev. Nathaniel Milton will be keynote speaker for Religious Emphasis Week services March 16-19 at Alcorn State University in Lorman.

Milton will speak in Oakland Memorial Chapel Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m. This year's theme is "Growing up is a Christian's Duty."

Rev. Milton is a 1974 graduate of Alcorn where he received a bachelor's degree in sociology and social services.

He also received the master of divinity degree in 1980 from the Interdenominational Theological Center, Atlanta, Ga.

He is currently the pastor of Grace Baptist Church, Baltimore, Md.

Religious Emphasis Week is sponsored by the Religious Life Committee. J.W. Fortenberry is chairman.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Back together

Q. My aunt and uncle are so close to me that they seem like a second mother and father. We've really had a lot of good times together. They have taken me out shopping, etc. But now my uncle has a girlfriend and is living at his parents' house, and my aunt is living by herself. I've asked God to break up my uncle and girlfriend and have him come back to my aunt. But it just isn't working. Please tell me what I should do.

A. Naturally you are sad about this, but perhaps your emphasis is in error. The important thing is not to get your aunt and uncle back together so that you can have good times with them again. The real problem is the tragic break in their personal relationship. If your prayers are for them personally and their happiness together, you may get a better result. And such prayers will help you deal with this unhappy situation.

We are sending you our booklet How To Pray, which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY, 12564.

Nervous dancer

Q. Since I am a ballet dancer by profession it is necessary for me to audition for every job. But I get so nervous that I forget the steps. Please tell me if you know of anything I can do to help myself gain confidence.

A. When you come to an audition, practice the power of affirmation. Say to yourself, "I know all the steps. I can and will perform successfully." See or image or visualize yourself doing well. Then, enjoying the experience, put yourself and all your talent into the audition. You will enjoy it and it will go off very well, just as you visualized. A good man

Q. My daughter is a good girl, has a good job. Has about as comfortable life as a person can have, only she is lonely and has no husband. I've prayed a long time for her. She has many friends of both sexes but not one she loves and wants to marry—yet she wants to.

She fell for two men in her life who broke her heart. She is good morally. Can I think her into getting a good man for a husband? And how?

A. Since your daughter has had her heart broken twice it is not unnatural that she should be wary. She doesn't want to be burned a third time. As to "thinking" a good husband for her, yes, that is a viable method.

Visualize, or image, a good steady husband for your daughter and get her to do the same. It is not at all farfetched to believe that such method may produce results. Meanwhile, try to get her into associations where there is a likelihood that the desired type of man may appear.

Kinski stages ball, parades in Pass

By Randy Ponder
What has seven Ks and 30 members? The Kinski Kurt Kinski Kinski Klub, of course! Formed several years ago by a group of upstanding young men with nothing better to do, the carnival organization staged its ninth annual Mardi Gras ball last weekend at the DAV Hall in Bay St. Louis.

"Best ever and getting better," is how King Klaus IX, Aaron Adams, described the 1981 ball.

"The crowd was respectable, rowdy and a good debauch was had by all," the newly appointed King added.

Invitations were mailed two weeks prior to the ball and the response was overwhelming. "We had tables and chairs for 250 people, but by the time the band finished the first set, we had run out of chairs," Chuck Benvenuti reported. "I would estimate at least 300 people attended the ball."

Duke Bardwell & Tomcat of Baton Rouge, La. provided the music.

Highlight of the gala event was presentation of the court. A king selection committee composed of the three previous kings appoints the new king and court. Mike McGinity, Wayne Fillingame, and Jimmy Wagner, the three past Kings, decided that Aaron Adams would be King Klaus IX.

"We try to pick someone who is cheap, lowdown, rowdy and will probably eventually make it to the Kinski Hall of Shame," McGinity explained.

Actually, the king is chosen on the basis of his contributions to the club.

Each new King is crowned with the royal chamber pot.

"One of the proudest moments of my life was when I was crowned with that slop jar," King Adams avowed. "I was a little disappointed though, that someone drank the royal scepter, a can of Ballantine beer that went through hurricane Camille."

Queen of this year's event is Leslie Wagner.

Other members of the court were dukes Mike Reeves, Chuck Benvenuti, and Joe De Benvenuti. The maids were Mary McGinity, Candy Murphy, and Lynn Fillingame.

Each year the krewe takes part in the Pass Christian Parade and this year was no exception.

Kinski this year set a new record for the krewe with the most consecutive years to complete the parade, two in a row.

For several years an old run down float the organization used failed to make it through the entire parade for one reason or another.

Things like wheels falling off were a regular occurrence. Last year Kinski purchased an all-metal trailer and the float problem appears to be solved.

"Now if we could only find an answer for those next morning, 'crapulous blues,' a krewe spokesman lamented.

King Klaus IX accepts the royal chamber pot.....

A perfect fit!

Nutritious Beef-Vegetable Soup

Nothing seems more satisfying to make on a cold winter day than a pot of homemade vegetable soup. What's more, there's a lot of nutrition in a bowl of hearty soup. Instant bouillon or bouillon cubes are a boon to today's soup makers.

HEARTY BEEF-VEGETABLE SOUP

(Makes about 2 1/2 quarts)

- 1 pound beef cubes for stew, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 3/4 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 9 cups water
- 3 tablespoons Wyler's® Beef-Flavor Instant Bouillon OR 9 Beef-Flavor Bouillon Cubes
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups sliced carrots
- 1 1/2 cups sliced celery
- 1 (16-ounce) can stewed tomatoes
- 4 ounces uncooked medium noodles

In large Dutch oven, brown beef and onion in vegetable oil. Add water, bouillon, bay leaf, basil and pepper. Cover. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 1 hour 30 minutes. Add carrots, celery and tomatoes; cook 15 minutes. Stir in noodles; cook 10 minutes longer or until noodles are tender. Refrigerate leftovers.

Life quality indicators resume downward trend

After a year in which the "quality of life" remained virtually unchanged in the United States, halting a 10-year decline, four environmental indicators resumed their downward trend in 1980, the National Wildlife Federation reported in its 12th annual Environmental Quality Index (EQI) survey.

Among the seven natural resources measured—water, wildlife, living space, and soil—all suffered losses during the past year, the EQI study found.

The other three—minerals, air, and forests—remained unchanged.

For the first time in five years, none of the indicators showed any improvement.

Thus, this year's report, covering 1980, was gloomier than that for 1979, a year in which four of the indicators—water, wildlife, soil, and forests—held their own, while one—air quality—showed improvement, and the remaining two—minerals and living space—declined.

Air quality is the only environmental indicator that is higher today than when the first survey was made in 1970, the National Wildlife Federation noted. The EQI study is published in NWF's bimonthly magazine, National Wildlife, each February.

The EQI is an estimate of the quality of life in the U.S.

based on a combination of objective measurements and the subjective judgments of the NWF staff in consultation with government experts and academic researchers.

Five federal agencies—the Bureau of Land Management, the Council on Environmental Quality, the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Forest Service, and the Soil Conservation Service—now cooperate with the Federation in the collection of resource data.

According to the 1981 EQI, last year conservationists anticipated the new decade with a "growing sense of trepidation."

A number of factors, including double-digit inflation, expensive energy supplies, urban decay, and soaring unemployment caused the growth of popular sentiment against "overregulation," including some environmental rules and restrictions.

Conservationists worried that many of their hard-won gains of the past ten years might be rolled back overnight.

"There were positive developments on a number of fronts in 1980," the EQI report notes. "But the thunderclouds are still building. The nation's current political climate may well signal even more stormy weather for environmental programs in the months and years ahead."

Summaries of the 1981 EQI

reports on the seven resources follow:

WILDLIFE
Down. While 1979 was U.S. wildlife's best year in a decade, last year the long downward slide resumed. The main reason: habitat loss. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency reported that up to two million acres of habitat will disappear annually between now and the year 2000.

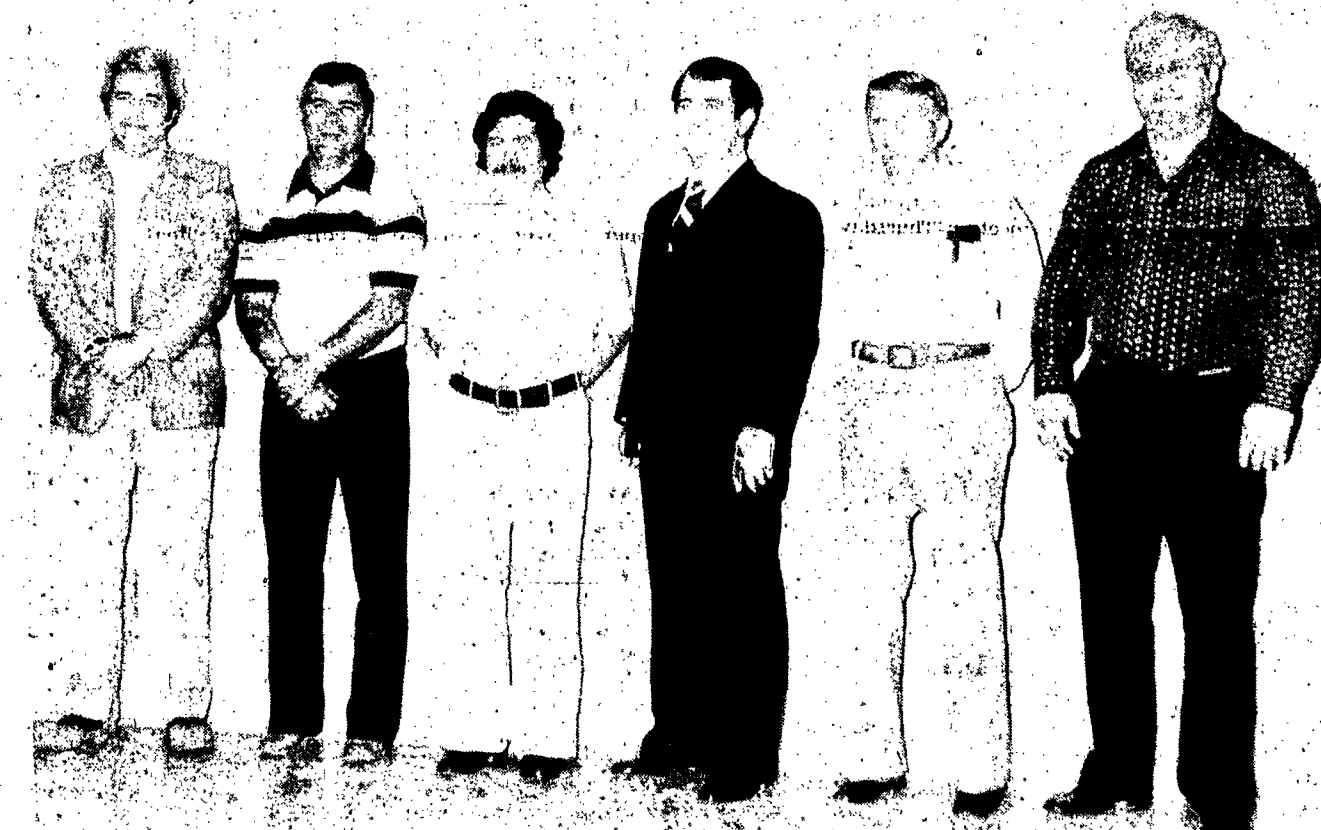

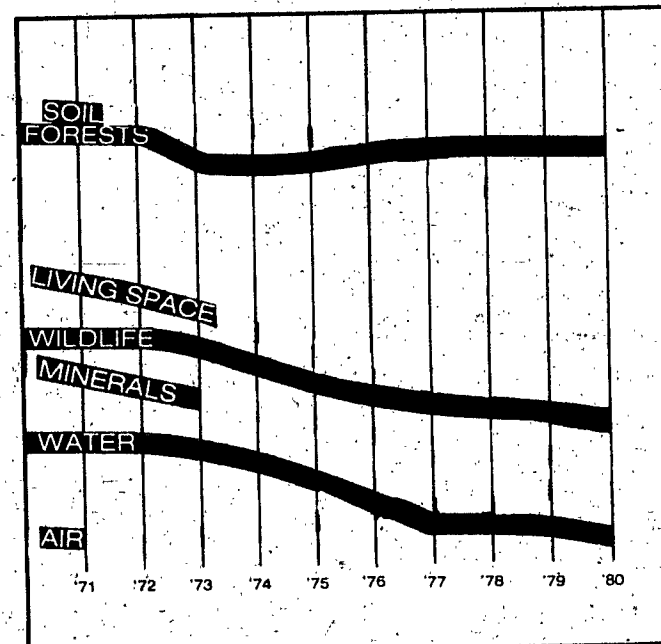

The implications for wildlife are staggering. We're already down to nearly half of the 200,000 square miles of wetlands that once existed in the Lower 48, and we've lost 20 million of the 25 million acres of hardwood bottomlands along the lower Mississippi River.

In some parts of the country last year man-made and natural disasters caused a decline in wildlife populations. Water tables in the Dakotas, western Minnesota and southern Canada were so low that waterfowl had a poor nesting year.

And in the Pacific Northwest, the eruption of Washington's Mt. St. Helens killed about 1.5 million wild animals.

Horse trading was business, sport, hobby and diversion

THE ICE MAN AND THE HORSE TRADER

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

I was telling my grandson how we used to get ice every day to put in our refrigerator to keep food from spoiling. He asked, "Why didn't you go down town and buy a Frigidaire?" This generation does not have the experience or the knowledge that present day conditions are entirely different from 50 to 60 years ago. Like my grandson they cannot imagine a world without refrigerators. It is actually surprising to the young fellow of today that we have not always had modern refrigeration.

I must have been over 30 years old before I ever saw an electric refrigerator. For the first few years of my married life we were visited every day, except Sunday, by the ice man.

The ice man had a bell on his horse's neck to attract the attention of housewives so that they could be ordered if they wanted any. Many had standing orders for ice which was delivered daily.

I remember that the ice man who furnished our ice drove a big gray horse to a covered wagon loaded with ice. While the ice man was carrying ice into the house next door the horse was so well trained that it would go forward and stop in front of our house for his master to get the ice for us. When this old horse got to the end of a dead end street he would back the wagon up and turn it around without any orders from the driver.

There were many old jokes about the ice man—most of them vulgar.

Manuel Allen, a colored man who lived in east Piquayune made a living selling and trading horses and mules. Manuel would take any kind of a mule or horse in any condition, fatten it up, brush and curry it until it was a fine looking animal. He would then sell it to a farmer or a trader. If you know much about horse trading, sometime before he died he told me, "I early learned how to trade horses. I would feed my horse well, rub and brush it until it really looked good. I would then get on my horse and ride him up Piquayune was H.R. McIntosh. I don't know how many ice wagons he had but there were a number of them. In the winter after people quit buying ice Mr. Mac, as everyone called him, sold firewood and stove wood and delivered with the same wagons, and rivers as he did the ice.

Because of his use of so many horses, Mr. Mac was always buying and trading horses and on the lookout for a good horse or mule. Manuel Allen said, "Mr. Mac bought and traded more horses than anyone in town but if I tried to sell him or trade with him he was hard to do business with. If I went to him to trade he would think I was anxious to sell and that he could get a bargain."

Manuel was a good horse trader. He made a living at it for many years and that was quite an accomplishment. If you know much about horse trading, sometime before he died he told me, "I early learned how to trade horses. I would feed my horse well, rub and brush it until it really looked good. I would then get on my horse and ride him up town. If I did not get on a trade with someone else I'd go to the ice plant for Mr. Mac to see it as a good looking horse always attracted his eye.

I would not try to sell Mr. Mac, but would act like I just happened to be passing by. If he saw me he would most likely talk to me about my horse.

If he did not see me I'd pass by again after riding over the business section of Piquayune again.

If he did not see me this time I'd hitch my horse nearby in plain view and walk off somewhere, even up town several blocks away. Most likely he'd see the horse and be on the watch out for me."

There were many horse traders back in the old days when there were so many horses in the country. When I grew up everybody had horses. Men would trade horses at the grist mill or the country store and at other places; even at church and often there would be horse trading. I remember when I was a boy going to the grist mill on Saturdays and often seeing men get into horse trades.

The country's worsening economic situation didn't help wildlife last year.

Congress appropriated little cash for new refuges—the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's special fund for acquiring wetlands was slashed from a proposed $31 million to $18.5 million.

On the bright side, Congress passed and the president signed a bill authorizing up to $5 million annually to help states pay for nongame and other wildlife conservation plans.

MINERALS

No Change. As it has every year since the 1973 Arab embargo, oil dominated the minerals scene in 1980.

With only six percent of the world's population, the U.S. continued to gobble up fully a third of all oil consumed last year—around 40 percent of it imported from other countries, which are steadily depleting their own reserves.

One encouraging sign is that more and more Americans began making energy conservation an important part of their daily lives.

Here and there, entire communities waged war on waste last year, possibly heralding the advent of a nationwide conservation crusade.

But last year's passage by Congress of a costly ($20 billion for the first five years) "synthetic fuels" program worries some conservationists who point out that extraction of a relatively small amount of oil and gas from shale, sand, and coal could cause massive environmental degradation.

AIR

No Change. Air quality continued to improve in many parts of the country last year, but pollution in some rural areas worsened as a result of a rapidly increasing phenomenon: acid rainfall. Meanwhile, to head off mounting pressure to soften air-pollution regulations, EPA rolled back several deadlines, giving the slumping U.S. auto industry more time to meet exhaust standards and granting Ohio's utilities more time to burn local supplies of high sulfur coal without installing costly scrubbers.

These decisions were made despite evidence that acid rain—which occurs when coal or auto pollution combines in the air with water—has increased fiftyfold in the last 25 years over the eastern half of the country.

WATER

Down. Over much of the country, polluters have stopped dumping wastes directly into rivers and lakes and as a result many U.S. waterways have become swimmable and fishable again.

But now there's an appalling new threat—unable to dump their toxic wastes into rivers and lakes, many industrial polluters have illegally buried or stored them on land.

This has increased the flow of dangerous chemicals into the earth, and pollution of the ground water people use in their homes is increasing.

Last fall, a House subcommittee released a list of 2,100 places around the nation where industrial wastes may be contaminating the water. Even ocean water is not safe these days.

Right now poisoned dredge spoils are regularly dumped in 130 places off the coasts of 15 states.

In some parts of the U.S. ground water depletion, rather than pollution, is the main problem. Thirty years ago, Americans were using about 20 billion gallons per day from underground supplies. By last year, the amount had increased to nearly 90 billion gallons.

FORESTS

No Change. For the fourth consecutive year, the EQI showed that forests remain healthy. The situation is far from stable, however, with timber shortages grow, there's mounting pressure to cut more wood.

And although a depressed U.S. construction industry is keeping domestic demand low for now, consumption is expected to leap from 13.3 billion cubic feet in 1978 to 20.3 billion in 1990 and 28.6 billion in 2030.

There were some heartening developments in 1980. The federal government proposed to reserve about 15.4 million acres of national forest as wilderness, with possible future additions of as much as another 10.6 million acres.

And the government also pledged its support for less dependence on national forests for commercial timber, more incentives to increase production on private timberlands.

LIVING SPACE

Down. Conservationists became alarmed last year over a new grass-roots movement out West, called the Sagebrush Rebellion. This revolt against land-use controls on about 400 million acres of public western lands is more than a regional conflict.

In some ways it's a symptom of nationwide discontent with government regulations.

What the rebellion boils down to is an attempt by special-interest groups in Nevada, Arizona, and elsewhere to transfer federal lands to state ownership.

But conservationists point out that while federal management of our public lands is far from perfect, states would find the cost of properly managing the land unbearable.

As if the "rebellion" weren't enough, U.S. living space declined further in both quality and quantity last year. The National Park Service reports that already overburdened parks are deteriorating because of overcrowding and pollution. Meanwhile, wasteful water projects continue to destroy pristine areas.

On the positive side, passage in 1980 of an Alaska Lands bill which reserves 104.3 million acres of Alaska as public land and a Coastal Zone Management Improvement Act, which budgets $71 million in incentives for states to protect coastlines.

SOIL

Down. Last year, the U.S. exported more than $40 billion worth of food, and as the world's population continues its rapid climb, foreign demands on U.S. agriculture could reach staggering proportions. Unfortunately, the U.S. is losing valuable farmland at an alarming rate. Each year, about a million acres of prime farmland are permanently lost to urban sprawl, highways, and other development.

To offset these losses, about 1.3 million acres of new cropland are brought into production annually by draining swamps, irrigating deserts, and clearing woodlands—land being converted to agriculture at the expense of forests and other valuable wildlife habitat.

And these new lands are subject to more serious erosion losses than prime acreage.

Currently the U.S. Soil Conservation Service estimates that about four billion tons of American topsoil are lost annually to erosion.
